Medical imaging is the technique and process of creating visual representations of the interior of a body for clinical analysis and medical intervention, as well as visual representation of the function of some organs or tissues ( ). Medical imaging seeks to reveal internal structures hidden by the skin and bones, as well as to diagnose and treat disease.

In computer vision, image segmentation is the process of partitioning a digital image into multiple segments (sets of pixels, also known as super-pixels). The goal of segmentation is to simplify and/or change the representation of an image into something that is more meaningful and easier to analyze.

This is an educational blog aimed at helping the reader understand the theory behind digital signal processing blocks used in digital communication transmitter and receiver. The theory is explained using classical text books as reference accompanied with simulation model using Matlab and/or Octave scripts.
